Does Money Interest You?

FEW MEN ever become so affluent that they are indifferent to what they spend. Even the most wealthy motorist insists upon maximum value for every dollar he invests in a car.

This explains the popularity of the Chandler with those who know values.

All that is essential, all that is modern, all that appeals to pride, all that means economy of operation, is embodied in the new Chandler.

Sterling performance on the road,—

Richness, beauty and good taste in line and appointment,—

Power, ruggedness and advanced engineering in the chassis,—

These factors allied to surprisingly low cost.

The Chandler models meet every possible transportation need.

The Chandler takes you, at lowest cost, into the fine car class.

This is the special appeal that explains the Chandler success.

4-passenger Sportster and 7-passenger Touring models now in stock.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE YEAR 1922. AN EVENTFUL YEAR.

A year so full of important and unusual incidents as the one just completed seems to require a slightly different arrangement of our customary chronology of principal events. The incidents of the Seamen's Strike of January, February and March are given in a separate chronology, and in some detail, as it is thought that readers will find interest—a painful interest, perhaps—in refreshing their memories by means of a "tabloid history," of a critical period. That section of the chronology follows immediately, the more prosaic events of the year follow on, and finally comes a list of piracies which, this year, have been unusually numerous.

THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

JANUARY.
11.—Following private negotiations during the last few months, the Chinese Seamen's Union threaten to strike within 24 hours if their demand for a percentage increase in wages is not granted.
12.—The shipowners meet and recommend each Company to get in touch with its own crews.
13.—The Strike officially declared. The Hon. Mr. Claud Severn tells a Press correspondent that the problems involved will be "dealt with as a matter of office routine."
14.—Trains to Canton crowded with seamen.
15.—The Government offers, by proclamation, to appoint arbitrators.
16.—The men's representatives suggest arbitration.
17.—Government agrees to arrange arbitration.
18.—A day of conferences.
19.—The S.C.A. published a scale of increases ranging from 25 to 10 per cent. (as against the men's demand for 40 to 50 per cent.) and urges the seamen to return to work and await arbitration.
20.—The Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax holds a party at the Seamen's Union.
21.—The men make a counter proposal of 30 to 35 per cent. increases.
22.—Mr. A. E. Wood goes to Canton and interviews the Civil Governor.
23.—Matters thereby put into some confusion.
24.—The men not returning to work, the shipowners withdraw the proffered "increases" and stand by arbitration.
25.—Seamen's Union cancel their proposal of the 17th and revert to their original demands.
26.—The Kinshan and Huingshan leave for Canton, manned by naval ratings, to get food supplies.
27.—Return of the Kinshan and later, of the Huingshan. Failure of the trip: an "absolute boycott" at Canton.
28.—Special goods train service organised to bring food supplies.

29.—On a rumour that a scratch crew is being assembled for one ship, the one or two men remaining on each ship withdrawn by the Union.
30.—The men now take meals ashore on "ration cards" from the companies.
31.—A "Strikers' Bulletin" is published at Canton, where the men are housed in large matchboxes and fed by the local organisations.
32.—Union official sent to prison for boarding a steamer without permission.
33.—D. E. Robinson, "the strikers' Irish delegate," sent to prison for a similar offence.
34.—Some steamers leave port (said to be manned by Shanghai crews taken on board in Junk Bay).
35.—A rumour that the railwaymen will strike.
36.—New proposals by the Seamen's Union: 40 to 50 per cent. increases, an Arbitration Board at Canton and many other conditions, including a demand for payment of wages during the strike.
37.—Shipowners reply that discussion must be confined to wages.
38.—The "cargo coolies strike, too."
39.—The tally clerks follow suit.
40.—Stern warning issued by the Government, against "intimidation" and "sympathetic" strikes.
41.—Military pickets on the harbour front.

FEBRUARY.
1.—Seamen's Union declared an unlawful society, "not because they have struck for higher pay," but because they "procure" other strikes.
2.—The Seamen's Union headquarters raided and closed that night.
3.—Coal coolies' strike called.
4.—Considerable increases of prices noted in Hongkong and Canton.
5.—European staffs-unloading vessels.
6.—The Stevedores' Guild raided.
7.—Man sentenced for intimidation.
8.—Some cargo coolies working under police protection.
9.—U.S. citizens volunteer for constabulary duty. British, Portuguese, and other nationals enrolled as "specials" in large numbers.
10.—Another intimidator sentenced. Seaman charged with being a member of an unlawful society.
11.—H.M. Consul-General at Canton notifies that the strikers will negotiate if Union office is opened again.
12.—H.E. the Governor replies: "Unlawful cannot be reopened."

Mr. G. M. Dodwell, at the annual meeting of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Co., explains the despatch of the steamers Kinshan and Huingshan to Canton.
The strikers assemble at Shumchun to prevent with armed force, the transport of food supplies by rail. They carry Chinese soldiers' rifles.
Intimidation at Central Market.
8.—Hongkong Government despatches soldiers and police to the frontier.
Chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital convenes a meeting to try and bring the strike to an end. A conference arranged.
9.—Stevedores' Guild and cargo coolies' and tallymen's guilds proscribed.
Northern crews said to be available.
Seamen's boarding-house keepers visit Canton to try and bring the strikers to reason.
Revised demands as the result: re-instatement of the unions pressed for.
Strikers search all trains from Canton and confiscate all food found.
Export of rice and flour to Canton stopped.
The shipowners agree, at the suggestion of the Government, to renew their offer.

10.—The seamen send four representatives to Hongkong to meet the Tung Wah delegates.
11.—Protracted conference at the General Chamber of Commerce Room. No decision reached.
12.—The delegates go back to Canton.
13.—Several vessels leave with Ningpo crews.
14.—The Government calls on the Seamen's Union for "proof of freedom from unlawfulness," by returning to work.
15.—The Arbitration Board constituted.
16.—Effects of the strike on the interior of South China noted.
17.—Return of the seamen's delegates from Canton. Conferences at the Tung Wah and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.
18.—Shipowners consider the delegates' message.
19.—Delegates receive the shipowners' reply.
20.—Delegates return to Canton.
21.—Telegram from H.M. Consul-General at Canton that a 2 per cent. increase on the owners' offer might have the desired result.
22.—Delegates now in Hongkong with "a fresh statement of the seamen's case."
23.—Rice coolies and carpenters threaten to strike. Rumours of a general strike.
24.—Chan Ping Sang, Chairman of the Seamen's Union, arrested in Canton for the murder of his wife.
25.—Strikers throw over the Tung Wah Hospital mediators and place negotiations with the Chinese Engineers' Institute, who urge a two per cent. further concession by the owners.
26.—Shipowners offer a further concession of 25 per cent.
27.—Chinese stevedores shot dead at mid-day on the Praya, supposedly for strike-breaking.
28.—Government receives a letter that the seamen reject the new terms.
29.—Seamen throw over their latest intermediaries and reject the shipowners' latest concessions.
30.—General sympathetic strike declared. Attempt to hold up the white population. Cooks and hotel waiters intimidated and called out.
31.—Enormous crowds on early trains to Canton.
32.—Executive Council closes the Port. Train services cancelled.
33.—Legislative Council passes emergency legislation.
34.—Special meeting at the Colonial Secretary's office to discuss maintenance of essential services.
35.—Message from Consul-General at Canton that a meeting of owners and seamen might bring about a settlement.

MARCH.
1.—Residue of the hotel staffs and house boys come out. Ladies do the work. Hongkong Hotel and Club run on the cafeteria plan.
2.—Wiseman's prosecute their bakers for leaving work.
3.—European office staffs receive threatening circulars and orders to stop work. The sympathetic strikers undertake to walk to Canton. They are sent back at the frontier.
4.—Special constables enrolled. A.S.C. run the abattoirs. Food queues at the shops.
5.—Huge assemblage of strikers near the Po Hing Theatre, Yau-mai-shi.
6.—Consul Jamieson comes to Hongkong. It is notified that delegates with full powers are coming from Canton. They arrive.
7.—Encounter of the police and military with 2,000 strikers on the Shatin Road. Three strikers killed and eight wounded.
8.—All day conference between the shipowners and seamen, attended by Mr. Jamieson. A difficulty arises over strike pay.
9.—Strike notices issued by employers' organisations in many trades.
10.—The conference resumed. Sir Robert Ho Tung facilitates a settlement by a guarantee regarding strike pay.
11.—Complete agreement reached by afternoon and terms signed by shipowners and seamen.
12.—Conference between the Government and the seamen's delegates follows.
13.—Another agreement signed as to the questions between the Government and the seamen—e.g., the reopening of the Seamen's Union.

6.—Situation more acute than ever: General strike declared. No trains, the railway stopped and only single sheet newspapers.
7.—The Seamen's Union and other unions reinstated. Huge crowds watch the return of the stevedores from the Central Police Station.
8.—All persons arrested in connection with the strike released.
9.—Chinese celebrations of their "victory."
10.—Daily Press leader on the strike settlement receives general endorsement from the community.
11.—Shipowners express their thanks to Mr. Jamieson and Mr. Luk King for.
12.—Public Judicial Inquiry into the shooting at Shatin opened at the Magistracy. Later a verdict is returned of "justifiable homicide," with the rider that the police exercised all possible forbearance.
13.—Official account of the settlement negotiations published in the Gazette.
14.—Shipowners' account of the strike issued.
15.—Leung Wo, accused of murdering Leung Yuk Tong, the stevedore who collected strike-breaking crews, is sentenced to death. An appeal to the Privy Council on the ground of a misdirection of the jury is unsuccessful, and, some months later, the prisoner is hanged.

KOWLOON DOCK COMPANY BALL.

ANOTHER HUGE SUCCESS.

A BEAUTIFUL BALLROOM SCENE.

The annual ball held by the staff of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co. last night proved to be a great success. The ball was held in the moulding loft of the Dockyard, though it looked very unlike a moulding loft last night, for it was decorated in most artistic fashion to represent a woodland scene by moonlight. Huge branches of banyan hung down from the ceiling, and cunningly screened behind them were a number of arc lamps. The light from these was softened by the foliage, and, shining through the leaves cast mottled shadows on the floor, looking for all the world like the floor of some woodland glade at the time of a harvest moon. Around the walls at regular intervals were red Chinese lanterns which shed a subdued glow for the dancers to dance by, and toned down the colours of the Indian dresses with charming effect. At one period of the evening a spot light was thrown on to the gathering, flitting from face to face like a will o' the wisp dancing in a Yorkshire fen.

The dancing floor itself was well nigh perfect, as indeed it had every right to be, for coolie women had been at work polishing the newly placed wood for days before the ball. The floor, too, was a spacious one, and in spite of the huge number of guests, never at any time was there the least suggestion of crowding. The entrance to the hall was flanked on each side by a brilliant "Broadway" sign bearing the dates of the company's existence, from 1865 to 1922. On either side of the doorway were the cloakrooms, and the doorways from these opened right out into the ballroom (though one might easily have imagined it to be a country scene in England on a midsummer's eve). At the other end of the room was the bandstand, where the Band of the King's Regiment discoursed music for the dancers, soft and sensuous, or loud and jazzy, as the dance demanded.

Beyond the bandstand was the supper room, very different in its decorative scheme to the ballroom. The ceiling was provided by a huge, convex dome, worked in cloth with every colour in the rainbow. Brilliantly coloured electric lights were clustered around and in the centre, while gaily shaded lamps and ribbons festooned the walls. At the top end of the room was another "Broadway" sign, even larger and more brilliant than those at the entrance. This depicted the Company's flag and initials, cleverly worked out so that first of all the bare outline of the flag itself appeared in the form of running white lights; then the red cross on the flag printed itself in, and finally the letters "H.W.D.C." On the walls of the supper room were hung the pictures of nine old employees of the firm, most of them, unfortunately, dead.

The gentlemen responsible for decorations were Mr. F. C. Coleman, who was in charge of all the lighting arrangements, and Messrs. G. Duncan, W. Greig, and D. Keith.

The general committee in charge of the arrangements was as follows:—Messrs. D. Keith, president; G. Duncan, vice-president; J. Smyth, hon. treas.; W. Forsyth, hon. sec.; and Messrs. A. Simpson, D. McL. Neilson, G. Cuthill, W. Johnstone, and W. Hedley.

An excellent menu was provided for the supper. The table was presided over by the Chief Manager of the Company, Mr. R. N. Dyer, whilst among other well known people present there were:—Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bernard; Mr. and Mrs. E. Cook; Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Claud Severn; Dr. Forsyth; Hon. Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Lang; Mr. and Mrs. Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. J. Read; Hon. Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Stephen; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clarke; Commr. and Mrs. Beckwith; and Mr. and Mrs. R. Sutherland.

The dance programme comprised 24 dances, five being supper dances, and included besides waltzes, foxtrots, and one-step, the lancers, calcedonians and eight-some reels.

THE "SUI AN" PIRATES.

REPORTED CAPTURES.

It is reported from Canton that the Chinese authorities have succeeded in capturing upwards of a score of the pirates who looted the Sui An, including a man who is alleged to have disguised himself as a woman for the purpose of the piracy. He had been shot in the shoulder and is said to have since died in prison.

We learn that the Hongkong police have received no confirmation of these reports.

ARMED ROBBERIES.

WOMAN STABBED BY A ROBBER.

After a few days' lack of news of armed robbers they have become active again. Three cases were reported to the Police on Thursday. In the first case a woman named Leung Ho, living in Third Street, West Point, was attacked by a robber at nine o'clock on Thursday night whilst she was lying asleep in her bed. She was awakened by the man grabbing her by the throat. She struggled violently and was stabbed on the head with a dagger. When the man had overpowered her, he removed from her wrists two rattan gold mounted bangles. He afterwards broke open a box and stole $100 in cash.

When the police were called to the scene the woman was in an exhausted condition owing to loss of blood. She was dazed and was only able to give a hazy account of the affair. She is now in hospital and her condition is said to be grave.

The other robbery occurred at Sai Wan Ho, a grocer's shop, in Main Street, being entered by two armed men at 9.35 p.m. The accountant, who was standing behind the counter with his fork, was ordered at the point of the revolver not to move. He did not obey the order, however, but ran to the rear of the shop. One of the armed men came behind the counter, whilst the other took up the duties of guard at the door. The man behind the counter broke open several drawers and collected $30 in cash. The robbers escaped.

ARMED TO THE TEETH.

MAN IN QUEEN'S ROAD WITH FIVE REVOLVERS.

A gun-running exploit by a Chinese was abruptly terminated in Queen's Road Central, on Thursday evening, by an alert Chinese likong. The constable was on duty near the old fire station when he noticed a Chinese strolling along the road as if he owned it. The man was wearing a long coat and looked fat and prosperous. Thinking that his appearance was strange and his chest too expansive in comparison to the rest of his body, the constable accosted and examined the man. His alertness was well rewarded. In the suspect's breast pockets he found three revolvers, and strapped to his back were two more. The gun-runner was taken to the Central Station where the weapons were found to be of a German make, of a large and powerful pattern, similar to the Mauser pistol. Needless to say the gun-runner was found accommodation in the police cells and in due course he will appear before the Magistrate on a charge of unlawful possession.

THE LOCAL YARN MARKET.

Messrs. Polishwalla & Kotwall, cotton and yarn brokers, in their latest circular, say:—

Since our last report on November 20th our yarn market has not undergone any material change and in the absence of inquiry from consuming districts, local buyers do not show inclination for purchases on a big scale, but are satisfying their immediate requirements in small lots, at ruling rates.

Recent moderate demand from Yunnan market has resulted in the sale of about 2,000 bales in best choice of No. 10s. and 12s. yarn, at an advance of $1 to $3.

The very heavy drop in Rupee Exchange has made the position of foreign dealers most difficult in parting with their holdings, as local prices have not improved in comparison with this decline in exchange, but as all foreign dealers are fully capable of holding their stocks until prices show a substantial improvement the tendency at the close has remained steady. Total sales, 4,000 bales; unsold stock, 10,000 bales; bargains, 10,000 bales; arrivals, 8,000 bales.

Shanghai.—The most notable feature is, that the Indian yarn, which had been so largely operating in Shanghai market for more than 35 years, has been completely wiped out by the daily increasing production and the most competitive prices offered by the local mills. Since last month there has not been a single bale of Indian yarn in stock in Shanghai, and unless some most abnormal change occurs, there is hardly any chance of the importation of Indian yarn in Shanghai in the future. Business in local mills yarn continues on a moderate scale with slight improvement in prices.

Japanese Yarn.—Owing to the present low rates as compared with those ruling in Japan, holders are waiting for higher prices; hence business in this yarn, during the whole interval, had been very limited (and the latest quotations are as under:—300 bales, Nagasaki No. 20s. at $100; 300 bales, 3 Horses No. 10s. at $100; 100 bales, 3 Horses No. 20s. at $100; 100 bales, Yellow Joss No. 20s. at $100; 100 bales, Seton, No. 10s. at $178; Seton, No. 20s. at $205; Blue Fish No. 20s. at $204.

Raw Cotton.—With very small stock no business of importance has passed during the interval. Quotations: Bengal $30 to $37 per picul; Chinese $37 to $44 per picul.

GERMAN SUBJECT ON TRIAL AT CANTON.

FIRST GERMAN TO BE TRIED BY CHINESE JUDGES.

The trial of Dr. M. M. de Colbert, a German, now being held in connection with the bomb outrages at Canton on October 10th, took place before the Canton District Court at ten o'clock on the morning of December 28th, when an exceptionally large number of Chinese and foreigners were present to observe the proceedings as this was the first criminal case to come before a local tribunal since the German rights to extraterritoriality were abrogated.

The defendant pleaded not guilty to all charges of unlawfully possessing dangerous weapons and other acts.

The case came up before the first criminal division of the Canton District Court presided over by Judge Cheng Shen Yen with Judges Loh Kung Shong and Mok Saac Kit as associates. Procurator Yue Shik Yen prosecuted for the people, while Li Kuo Ying, a barrister, appeared for the defendant.

The procurator, the Canton Times says, charged the defendant with having violated Section 204 and 206 of the new Criminal Code of the Republic, that is of having, without permit from a competent authority, agreed to be commissioned to manufacture and store dangerous weapons, certain explosives, or having imported from foreign countries such explosives without being able to specify their proper use. Upon conviction, the defendant may be imprisoned for short terms or fined up to three hundred dollars.

Before the case proceeded, Presiding Judge Cheng remarked that since the end of the European War, the right of the Germans to extraterritoriality in China had been abolished; and as Dr. de Colbert had given his nationality as German, the Court had jurisdiction over the defendant.

Neither the defendant nor his attorney commented on the remark.

The greater part of the trial was taken up by the defendant trying to explain his movements in Canton after his arrival there. His explanation was given to the Court through an interpreter. The Court adjourned at half-past one, and further hearings will be announced.

Mrs. de Colbert and her four children were at the court, watching the trial.

Among those who were present as spectators included Acting Chief Justice Mok Hung Chow of the High Court, First Judge Leong Tao Yang of the District Court, and District Procurator Liu Kai Wo.

THE FOOCHOW TEA TRADE.

Mr. E. B. Price, the United States Consul at Foochow, in a recent report wrote:—The 1922-23 tea season at Foochow, China, promises to be the best the port has seen since before the war. Total shipments of tea up to August 11th, 1922, amounted to 2,352,000 lb., as compared with 259,000 lb. in the same period of 1921. Of the amount of tea exported, Europe received 1,851,000 lb. and the United States 72,818 lb. London was the largest purchaser of Foochow tea, but the Netherlands was a close second. Germany has re-entered the market, and is at present the third largest purchaser of Foochow teas, with Australia and France next in rank.

The most popular grades are the Congous and Souchongs, although Scented Orange Pekoes and Flowery Pekoes have been somewhat in demand. Oolong and Nysans have practically disappeared, and with the dominant state of the Russian market, there has been no brick tea shipped whatever. The prices are high, and tea men complain that the Chinese up-country buyers upset the market by competitive buying.

CRICKET.

K.C.C. v. R.G.A.

The following have been selected to represent the K.C.C. at Kowloon, 2.15 p.m. today:—J. P. Robinson, B. D. Evans, B. Petheram, E. J. Stapleton, Capt. G. E. Spinks, C. Dancy, G. A. V. Hall, K. R. Macdonell, H. H. Benson, J. C. Fletcher, K. E. Lindsell, S. Jex (Reserve).

I.R.C. 2nd XI. v. UNIVERSITY 2nd XI.

The following will represent the I.R.C. in a friendly match against the University today, at 2.15 p.m., at Sookunpoo Valley:—E. Moedden, H. D. Ramjahn, P. M. Arroll, F. Hassan, A. Kitchell, J. Acker, A. R. M. Sany, D. Mahomed, N. M. Bux, A. C. Abbas and A. K. Minnu.

UNIVERSITY "PAST" v. "PRESENT."

This match will take place on January 1st, at 11 a.m. on the University ground at Pokfulam. The teams will be as follows:—

THE MUI TSAI PROBLEM.

By setting up a defence of the Mui Tsai system when introducing the Bill for its abolition in the Legislative Council on Thursday, the ATTORNEY-GENERAL can hardly be said to have shown that full sympathy with the object of the Bill with which some of our contemporaries, with an alacrity surprising in view of their past apathy, attributed to the Government upon the publication of the Bill which has been drafted "on instructions from the Secretary of State." The attitude of the local Government towards the public agitation for the abolition of the mui tsai system in this Colony is perfectly well-known to have been hostile to the proposal all along. Not since the days of Sir John Pope Hennessy, forty years ago, has any Governor that we know of boldly declared to the Home Government that a system which involves traffic in human beings should be suppressed by law. They have invariably represented it as a wholly benevolent institution. British law, they said, does not and never has recognised slavery, never has in any way recognised "the control of the employers," but the Census shows that there are over 3,000 mui tsai in the Colony, and we suppose it is safe to say that practically every one of these girls has been sold into bondage. It is futile to talk of the law not sanctioning slavery when it so widely prevails. It may be that much of the criticism at home regarding the system has been, as the ATTORNEY-GENERAL says, "confused, ignorant and unsympathetic," but the salient feature of the system, that it is based upon sale and purchase of human beings, suffices at once to ensure its condemnation in the eyes of all Western peoples. It is not surprising that the persistent agitation for the abolition of the system which has been vigorously carried on at home during the past few years should have perplexed the Secretary of State for the Colonies and led him to doubt the correctness of the traditional Colonial Office view of the question. It was in February last that Mr. CHURCHILL asked for a cessation of the bombardment of questions in the House of Commons on the subject, while he entered into correspondence with the Governor, "as he was not entirely satisfied with the gist of the questions and answers in the House of Commons." This confusion of perplexity by the Secretary of State for the Colonies was received in the House with cheers, as being the first step towards conversion, which was complete in the following month when Mr. CHURCHILL announced the decision to abolish the system in Hongkong, and said he expected the change to be carried out within a year. The Bill now before the Council represents the fulfilment of that promise. No doubt Mr. CHURCHILL's decision was greatly influenced by the formation of an influential Chinese Society in Hongkong which condemns the system and advocates its abolition, as well as by the further fact that the Chinese Government at Canton had come to a decision to abolish the system, and appointed a Judicial Commission to draft regulations to be applied when abolition was formally decreed. Whether anything has been done in the matter at Canton since the Government was changed we do not know, but the formation of the Anti-Mui Tsai Association in Hongkong, which quickly had a membership of over a thousand, and the decision of the Canton Government represented an expression of Chinese opinion on the alleged benevolence of the institution which no Secretary of State responsible for the good government of the Colony of Hongkong could ignore. It was enough to settle any lingering doubts he may have had on the subject, and it should be enough to satisfy the local Government, and the public generally that the custom is not the wholly benevolent institution it has so often been represented to be. No one disputes the fact that in many homes these girls are treated kindly and even with affection. Such was the case also with many negroes in America when slavery was a recognised institution, and indeed, there were many estimable gentlemen who defended the slavery system in America in much the same way that our worthy Attorney-General on Thursday attempted a defence of the Mui Tsai system. But the ATTORNEY-GENERAL frankly admitted that "the system does lend itself to abuse, and grave abuse, in the hands of evil and unscrupulous persons," and the Secretary of State has seen fit to order its abolition. When the Bill is passed into law it will be for all who value the British connection to see that the law is duly observed in the Colony.

BANQUE INDUSTRIELLE RECONSTRUCTION.

PARIS, December 28th.
The Senate committee has decided by 10 votes to 5 in favour of reconstructing the Banque Industrielle de Chine.

THE QUESTION OF FRANCE'S RESPONSIBILITY.

LATHE.
It was only Premier Poincare's insistence on the urgency of the passage of the Bill, in the interests of French prestige in the Far East, which secured a vote to-day.

The Reporter, M. Jeanneney, declared it to be premature to report the Bill to the Senate as the particulars available were still incomplete. He resigned, on the Committee deciding in favour of an immediate vote. M. Reynald was thereupon appointed Reporter. Premier Poincare emphasized that the Government's responsibility would on no account exceed the portion of the Boxer Indemnity devoted to the purposes of the Bill.

NO FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS ON GOLD DOLLAR BONDS.

The Gold Dollar Bonds which are to be delivered to the Bank's Far Eastern creditors would not bear the Government's signature, and France had contracted no financial obligations thereon. The procedure was simply an assignment of credit, under which the French Government did not guarantee the debtor's solvency, but the Government insisted that all the Bank's shares should be paid up. This was a sine qua non for the Franco-Chinese Agreement.

THE PROTECTION OF SMALL CHINESE CREDITORS.

In reply to questions Premier Poincare said that the protection of the interests of small Chinese creditors of the Bank could be entrusted to French Agents and Consuls.

The matter of the development of Franco-Chinese educational and charitable institutions, to which the balance of France's share of the Boxer Indemnity would be devoted, would be subject to an agreement between the two Governments. France hoped that a joint control would be arranged.

SIR R. MACLEAY LEAVES LONDON FOR PEKING.

LONDON, December 28th.
Sir Ronald and Lady Macleay, accompanied by Mr. Eric Alden, have left for Peking.

CHINESE FIVE PER CENT. CUSTOMS DUTIES.

EFFECTIVE ABOUT MIDDLE OF MARCH.

PEKING, December 29th.

The Chinese state officially that the Italian Legation has agreed that the Austrian ships question be arbitrated on under the auspices of the League of Nations. Approval from Rome is expected daily. This entirely separates the ships' tariff questions, and the Chinese expect Italian approval of the latter within a few days, which will allow the application of effective five per cent. customs duties about the middle of January.

NEW CHINESE POSTAL AND POSTAL RATES.

TO BE TEMPORARILY SUSPENDED.

PEKING, December 29th.
The Cabinet yesterday resolved to suspend temporarily the new telegraph and postal rates, and instructed the Ministry of Communications accordingly, but the new rates must be applied until the Ministry takes the necessary action.

CHINESE PREMIER ELECTED.

BIG MAJORITY IN THE SENATE.

PEKING, December 29th.

Wang Feng Chu presided at a meeting of the Senate this afternoon, at which one hundred and ninety members were present. The voting resulted in one hundred and seventy-three in favour of Chang Shou Tseng's Premiership and fourteen against. Three votes were irregular.

President Li Yuan Heng's Secretary, Jao Han Hsiang, recounted Chang Shou Tseng's record which was loudly applauded.

WESTERN WORKS OF ART.

PURCHASED BY JAPANESE SHIPBUILDER.

PARIS, December 28th.

The well-known Japanese shipbuilder, Mr. Kojiro Matsukata, has purchased many valuable works of art, including paintings by Manet, Claude Monet and Carriere, and sculptures by Rodin, for the gallery of modern Western art he has established near Tokyo.

Mr. S. E. Green, of No. 1, Orient Buildings, Kowloon, has reported to the Police that between one and six o'clock on the morning of the 28th, his room was entered by a burglar, who gained an entrance by climbing up the water spout on to the verandah, and then opening the verandah door. Jewellery to the value of $300 and a felt hat valued at $35 were stolen.

THE ALLIED PREMIERS' CONFERENCE.

ITALIAN PREMIER NOT TO BE PRESENT.

Rome, December 28th.
Signor Mussolini (Premier of Italy) has decided to carry into effect his previously hinted threat not to go to the Paris Conference of Premiers. He has now informed the Cabinet that the international situation renders his presence in Italy necessary, and there has not been sufficient diplomatic preparation to justify the hope of a rapid agreement being reached at the Paris Conference.

ITALY TO BE REPRESENTED BY AMBASSADORS.

Rome, December 28th.
Although Premier Mussolini will not attend the Paris Conference, Italy will be represented by the Italian Ambassadors in London and Paris and the Reparation Commissioners.

INDIAN NATIONAL CONFERENCE.

CHAIRMAN'S PROPOSAL REJECTED.

Gaya, December 28th.
After a debate lasting eight hours, the National Congress Subjects Committee by 203 votes to 85, passed a resolution rejecting the proposal of Mr. Das (Chairman) to enter the Legislative Councils.
An amendment, to contest the elections and not to take the oath of allegiance was rejected by 187 votes to 105.
The Congress will finally decide on the foregoing resolution to-morrow.

FRENCH REPAYMENTS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Paris, December 28th.
In a speech in the Chamber of Deputies, the Minister of Finance said that repayments effected abroad included £13,750,000 to Great Britain £13,750,000 to Japan and $13,400,000 to the United States.

CHRISTMAS PARCELS FROM HOME.

London, December 28th.
The Post Office statistics show that 19,320 Christmas parcels were sent to India and Ceylon, compared with 19,000 last year. To China and the Straits Settlements were sent 13,584, compared with 7,982 last year and to Japan 1,138 as against 1,084 last year.

THE CAIRO ASSASSINATION

MARTIAL LAW TO CONTINUE.

Cairo, December 28th.
Field-Marshal Sir E. Allenby (High Commissioner) will fix the compensation promised by the Egyptian Government for Mrs. Robson. He declares that there will be no question of the abolition of martial law while the attacks continue and insists on the reinforcement of the civil police. He states that British cavalry must again patrol Cairo.
The Premier, on behalf of the Government and people, has forwarded a letter to Field-Marshal Allenby expressing horror at the murder and conveying the Egyptian Government's regret to the British Government.

BRITISH COMMUNITY INDIGNANT.

Cairo, December 28th.
Two American tourists picked up Mr. Robson, who was still living, but unconscious. He died en route to hospital. He had five bullet wounds in the body. Two kinds of bullets were extracted, showing that more than one assailant fired at him. It is reported that the murderers escaped in a waiting motor-car.
The British community is most indignant at the murder. Field-Marshal Allenby has most energetically made representations to the Egyptian Government.

LATEST CABLES.
PAN-RUSSIAN SOVIET CONGRESS.

ONLY TWENTY-THREE CONCESSIONS RATIFIED.

Reval, December 28th.
Kamenoff said that only twenty-three out of five hundred proposals relative to concessions and the creation of mixed companies had, up to the present, been ratified, the most important being the proposal to create a mixed import and export company with the participation of German capitalists, headed by Herr Otto Wolf.

M. Bogdanov, Chairman of the Supreme Economic Council, stated that an undeniable tendency towards recovery could be observed in all branches of industry. The output of coal was equal to thirty-five per cent. of the pre-war output and oil was equal to fifty per cent.

EARLIER CABLES.

PROPOSED UNION OF SOVIET REPUBLICS.

Reval, December 28th.
A message from Moscow states that, replacing Lenin, who is ill, Kamenoff, addressing the opening of the tenth Pan-Russian Soviet Congress, stated that the Government would henceforth make no concessions to foreign Powers and would withdraw those suggested at the conferences at Geneva and the Hague. The period when they were forced to make big concessions had ended. He added, "We saw after the Geneva conference that Europe cannot get along without us, even if we don't pay our debts."

He termed the Lausanne Conference simply an Anglo-Russian duel. The Russians knew the Turks were ready to make big concessions, and the Russian wouldn't, but they would support Turkey as long as she was fighting imperialism.
The Congress, which was attended by two thousand delegates, including four hundred from the republics of the Ukraine, White Russia, the Far East, and the Caucasus, first considered the question of a union of all the Soviet Republics.

DEADLOCK AT LAUSANNE.

PLAIN SPEAKING BY ALLIED DELEGATES.

Lausanne, December 28th.
The number two commission, whose sub-commission after three weeks' work on the subject of the Capitulations has found it impossible to come to terms with the Turks, assembled in full session to-day under the presidency of Signor Garioni and sat for three hours, one of the longest sittings of the conference. It was characterised by much plain speaking on the part of the Allies, also a strong protest by the American representative, Mr. Child. Ismet Pasha in a long, irrefragable speech, described the proposed guarantees as worse than the Capitulations. The Allied spokesman warned him that Turkey could not return to the fourteenth century. Towards the end of the sitting, which adjourned, Ismet promised to consider what had been said.

THE SANCTITY OF OBLIGATIONS.

In the course of the discussion Mr. Child emphasised the sanctity of obligations, and declared that Turkey's obligations to America could only be cancelled by repudiation. He stated that the protection due to foreigners could not be withdrawn without obvious injustice. American sympathised with Turkish sovereignty, and hoped it would progress, but sovereignty implied duties in the highest sense.

WARNINGS TO TURKEY.

Baron Hayashi (Japan) said he regretted Ismet's attitude, and stated that the Allied scheme had been drawn up with special regard to Turkish susceptibilities, and asked the Turks to follow Japan's example regarding the Capitulations. Lord Curzon in measured phrases asked how peace could be accomplished by a speech like Ismet's and declared that M. Barre's weighty warning, Baron Hayashi's solemn appeal, and Mr. Child's statement, would impress the world, and when they compared Ismet's speech with these, who could doubt the verdict?
Lord Curzon dwelt at some length on the defects of the Turkish judiciary and police, and warned Turkey of the effect her present attitude would have on her foreign trade. He concluded by hoping that Ismet had not said his last word, otherwise it would be useless to proceed with the conference. He urged them not to disregard the serious speeches, which contained neither menace nor supplication.

BRITISH WARSHIPS FOR CONSTANTINOPLE.

Malta, December 28th.
Warships are hastily re-provisioning in consequence of an unexpected order to prepare to leave immediately. The Iron Duke, Marlborough, Ajax and Concord, and also the destroyers, have cancelled previous engagements and are preparing to depart this afternoon.

LATER.

The light cruiser Concord and five destroyers have left for Constantinople. The Iron Duke, with Vice-Admiral Brock on board, will be leaving this evening.

GERMANY'S DEFAULT.
AN INSIGNIFICANT ISSUE.

London, December 28th.
Political circles in London are not inclined to take a tragic view of the Reparation Commission's decision under which France has established her right to set separately under an ambiguously worded clause of the Peace Treaty. The newspapers hope she will not exercise the right, thereby prejudicing the outcome of the Premier's Conference, but are of opinion that this will be unlikely in view of the insignificance of the issue, since only a hundred thousand sterling is involved in Germany's timber default; moreover, the Reparation Commission in June laid down the point that in the event of default in deliveries Germany should lose credit even for the deliveries actually made, thus barring even economic penalties.

Most papers share the view of the Manchester Guardian, which declares that the French Government's actions are in the nature of manoeuvring for position in view of the forthcoming conference, in order to strengthen M. Poincaré's hand by furnishing a sanction for separate action on the part of France on bigger issues.

EXCITEMENT IN GERMANY ABATES.

Berlin, November 28th.
The excitement aroused in the Press by the Reparation Commission's action, relative to the arrears in the timber deliveries has been considerably abated by a Government statement explaining the causes of the delay. The statement says the Government had requested an extension of the delivery term until April 1st.

AMERICA AND EUROPE.

SENATOR BORAH'S EMBARRASSING AMENDMENT.

Washington, December 28th.
In a letter to Senator Lodge, President Harding asks the Senate not to adopt Mr. Borah's amendment, mentioned yesterday, because it would embarrass him in the negotiations he is already conducting for an international economic conference.

He states that the Administration is trying to be helpful in the European situation, which has been given most thorough and thoughtful consideration for many months, and suggests that Congress should assist by freeing the hands of the Debt Funding Commission. He adds that the question of reparations is the foundation of the European difficulties, and the United States could not presume to say to one nation what it shall pay in reparations nor to another what it shall accept.
Regarding further disarmament negotiations, President Harding indicates that the promise made in this connection can hardly be fulfilled until the nations directly concerned express their readiness to co-operate.

In the course of the debate following the reading of President Harding's letter in the Senate, Senator Lodge declared he could not state explicitly the nature of the President's negotiations, but they did not include debt cancellation. The President, however, was inclined to favour a longer period for amortisation and interest payments. Mr. McNary, Republican member of the Farmer's Bloc, supported Senator Borah's resolution, and opposed the policy of isolation. Senator Borah said the Administration's plan was in effect to cancel foreign debts through postponement of payment of interest and principal.
The Senate passed without debate a Democrat resolution expressing gratification at ex-President Wilson's recovery of his health.

WOMEN WORKERS IN AMERICA.

FROM STREET-CLEANERS TO JUDGESHIPS.

New York, December 28th.
The new American year book, "Women of 1932," shows that eight and a half million women are working in the United States. Out of 93 occupations reviewed, only 33 do not employ women. Women's occupations range from street-cleaning to judgeships.

SOUTH AFRICA DEFEATS M.O.C.

RECORD GATE RECEIPTS.

Johannesburg, December 28th.
The weather was dull on the resumption of the M.O.C. v. South Africa match. There were 4,000 present. The wicket was good. England scored 218, Nupen taking 5 wickets for 63 and Blackheath 238 minutes. There was great enthusiasm at the finish. Prince Arthur of Connaught personally congratulated each of the South Africans. The gate receipts were a record. The South African bowling was excellent.

LATER.
Mann, the M.O.C. captain, interviewed by Reuter, said he thought the best side had won. Their opponents played better cricket. Taylor's innings was magnificent, and won the match. The South Africans batted well and fielded extraordinarily well. They were always triers.

CHINESE AND FREE-MASONRY.
A BLUE LODGE.

The Chinese Chargé d'Affaires in London, Mr. Chao-Hsin Chu, was a guest at a Masonic Dinner, given by the London County and Westminster Bank Lodge, on November 18th. In the course of his remarks in responding for the Guests, Mr. Chu said:—

"When I was in America, the American brethren were very kind and courteous to me, so that I was always admitted without examination, being vouched for by a Past Master of the Lodge. Fortunately, Brother Briscoe introduced me here this evening and vouched for my admission. If you tell an outsider that you admitted a foreigner to your secret meeting and called a Chinaman your brother, he would not believe it. It is a wonderful way of 'mixing up' in our masonic functions. I belong to a Blue Lodge in Peking called the International Lodge, under American jurisdiction. I was raised to the 32nd degree at the Scottish Rite at Shanghai, also under American jurisdiction. When I was Consul-General in San Francisco, 1913, I joined the Islam Temple as a shrine. When you travel in America you find every shrine wears a badge or watch charm, to signify that he is a shrine. You can easily get acquainted with anyone who belongs to the same order. When I was travelling in the United States I used to cash personal cheques at a bank where I was not known personally, but after I talked a few minutes with the cashier or the manager, whom I found was a Freemason, when he recognised me as his brother, my personal cheques were immediately accepted without hesitation. This is the value of being a Freemason, and I am very proud of being one myself. Freemasonry was not founded in China, only the foreigners, particularly the British and Americans, started some Blue Lodges in different cities. But, of course, some Chinese secret societies have signs and symbols about the same idea, but they are of a different order entirely. The idea of fraternity, however, was included in the teaching of Confucius, who says: 'Within the four seas all are brethren.' This fraternal doctrine has been interpreted by his followers. I can give you two interpretations; for example, one says: 'All the races should be regarded as from the same mother,' and the other says, 'The world as a whole should be regarded as a family, and all people in the same country should be regarded as one person.' The proposer of the toast to the visitors just said that I am a friend of England. I cheerfully admit I am a friend of England. When I was in America, I was called a pro-American. Indeed, I was satisfied myself as possessing a 100 per cent. pro-Americanism. Now I am also satisfied as being myself a 100 per cent. pro-English."

RHODESIA CHOOSES SELF-GOVERNMENT.

The following is the result of the Referendum which was held on October 27th to decide whether Southern Rhodesia should join the Union or become a self-governing Colony:—
For Responsible Government 8,774
For Incorporation in the Union of South Africa 5,989

Majority for Responsible Government 2,785

The electorate numbered over 18,000 and included a large number of women and a few natives. It will be seen that the total vote recorded (excluding any spoiled papers) was 14,763.
The Rhodesians had had before them since January last the terms on which they could receive self-government; the terms offered by the Union of South Africa were made public on August 1st. It is anticipated that arrangements will be made for the British South Africa Company to hand over the administration of the country in March next.

The case in which a house boy, employed in a Japanese Mess, is charged with posting a notice in Bowen Road, near the Military Hospital, without the permission of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, was again mentioned in Court, yesterday. The house-boy, who had been allowed out on bail of $10, failed to put in an appearance and the Magistrate (Mr. Lindell) ordered his bail to be forfeited. The notice was in Chinese and purported to bear the signature of the Chief Commander of Sun Yat-sen's Southern Division Army. It took the form of a proclamation to the Chinese troops to the effect that anybody who was found interfering with the business of law-abiding people would be severely dealt with. Dr. Sun Yat-sen was described in the notice as the President of China.

MEXICAN OIL CONCESSIONS.
LEGISLATION HELD OVER.

Mexico City, December 28th.
The Mexican Congress will adjourn sine die on December 30th. The party leaders have agreed that it will be impossible before the end of the session to deal with the remedial oil legislation now before the committee of the Congress. President Obregon will probably call an extra session in April to pass the oil law.
Mr. J. L. O'Connor, the president of the American and Foreign Oil Corporation, which claims the right to exploit the Federal oil lands concessions granted by President Obregon, has left for New York en route to London in order to complete financial details. According to El Universal, Mr. O'Connor stated that the Corporation was largely formed of European capital, principally French.

THE BOXER INDEMNITY.
PROPAGANDA IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The Chinese Student, which is not merely the official organ of the Edinburgh University Chinese Students' Union, but also represents the Central Union of Chinese Students and the Overseas Chinese Society, had as one of its principal features in the November issue an article on Great Britain and the Boxer Indemnity. It says:—

"The Indemnities demanded of China after the Boxer rising were far in excess of the actual cost of the allied expeditionary force employed, and of the damage done to foreign property. This, coupled with the intense humiliation which the nation suffered, has rankled deeply in Chinese hearts. In short, the punishment meted out to us more than fitted the crime."

"America long ago recognised the unfairness of the penalty imposed on China, and made amends by returning the unexpended portion of her share of the indemnity, without imposing any reservations. China returned the compliment and employed the gift in sending her young sons to study in American colleges and universities. The American action at once received the grateful acknowledgment of the Chinese people, and had a wonderful effect in promoting good relations between the two countries. China looks to Britain to do no less than America. Apart from moral grounds, the part she took in the recent war should entitle her to some consideration in this respect. She supplied the Allies with labourers and provisions, and her nationals in the British Crown Colonies loyally supported the British cause with both treasure and service—even at the time when the Allied prospects were none too rosy. Besides this, she interned all enemy subjects, impounded their ships, prevented their submarines from obtaining bases on her shores, and acted as an effective barrier against the spread of Bolshevism eastwards, southwards, India, and perhaps worldwide. She received scant support at Versailles, and was compelled to withhold her signature to the treaty there drawn up, and only after Washington, through the good offices of America, were some of the promises given to her made good."

"It is recognised by us that so long as high taxation and unemployment prevail in this country, it is extremely difficult for the Government to entertain the above proposal. Nevertheless, the immediate sacrifice to the British National Exchequer would soon be completely justified by the improvement of trade, and the creation of employment over here to supply Chinese wants."

"It matters little to what particular purpose the indemnity is applied, whether to educate Chinese students over here, or to endow Chairs in Chinese Literature, Art, etc., in British Universities, or to endow Chairs in Science, Medicine, etc., in Chinese Universities. The important thing is to utilise the money in such a manner as will profit both nations. China needs much which Britain can supply if only she would endeavour to find out our requirements. Any of the above arrangements would stimulate British interest in China and Chinese interest in British goods and processes. This must appeal as a practical way of alleviating Britain's unemployment problem. Help us, and we will help you, is the message which China to-day extends to the British people."

EXPOSITION OF BODY OF ST. FRANCIS XAVIER.

SOLEMN CEREMONY AT NOVA GOA.

Nova Goa, December 28th.

The town was full of pilgrims and full of colour on Saturday evening when the Church of Bom Jesus was the scene of great solemnities preliminary to the exposition of the body of St. Francis Xavier. The Delegate Apostolic, Monsignor Pisani, the Patriarch and other high ecclesiastical dignitaries who had come here from all parts of India proceeded to the church in solemn procession to the strains of music provided by the military band. The church was already full with a large and distinguished congregation among whom were the Portuguese Governor-General, Brazilian and other Consular representatives and Catholic priests. Full vesper services were said by the Apostolic Delegate. The choir, organ and orchestra provided music during the ceremony. On the conclusion of vesper the body of the Saint was borne down to the sacristy covered over with a silken pall. Here some more solemn ceremonies were performed. The beautiful silver coffin was opened and the face of the Saint was exposed to a select gathering of dignitaries. This concluded Saturday's ceremonies. The public exposition took place this morning—Sunday—after twelve years. Testifying to the zeal and devotion of Catholics and the miraculous healing powers associated with the name of Francis Xavier, thousands of pilgrims had already arrived here. Among them were to be found men of all nationalities and faiths. Many of them had come from distant parts of the world at great sacrifices, imbeciles or those suffering from incurable diseases who came with the hope of being cured by touching the Saint.

Early on Sunday morning long before the appointed hour huge crowds had gathered near the church of Bom Jesus. A large procession headed by the Patriarch, the Apostolic Delegate, Bishops and other Catholic church dignitaries and followed by a large concourse of devotees singing the Litany moved from the cathedral to the church. From the sacristy the procession wended its way to the church proper, the Patriarch and Bishops bearing the body of the Saint on a bier which was deposited in a silver receptacle placed on a raised platform.

PRINCE AND LAWYERS.
"GRAND DAY" BANQUET.

WOMEN COUNSEL PRESENT.

Warned in the quaint old-fashioned way by the blowing of a horn that the dinner hour was near, Benchers, members, and students of Middle Temple flocked on November 28th to the "Grand Day" banquet in the fine old hall. Their particularly eager response was due to the circumstance that the Prince of Wales, a Benchers of the Inn, was to be present. This was the second time his Royal Highness had dined in Hall, the first being when, in July, 1919, he became a student, a member of the Bar, and a Benchers in one short evening.

His visit last night was made entirely in his capacity as Benchers, and in order to fraternise with the other rulers of the House and the members generally. He was accompanied by an equerry only (Captain the Hon. Piers Legh); he dined sitting at the head table on the dais at the right hand of the Treasurer, Sir Forrest Fulton, K.C., and in evidence of the lack of formality there was no place in the programme for speeches. The ordinary "Grand Day" dinner was served, with one extra course and a little extra allowance of wine, and the silver loving cups, with contents concocted from a secret, mysterious recipe, were passed along the tables in pledge of unity and friendship.

Time has wrought some changes not only in the banquet, but in many details of Middle Temple management in the last 100 years, although the spirit of these particular assemblies remains unchanged. Frivoly is now the rule, but years ago there were public celebrations in the Inns at Christmas time. No doubt it was a laudable design, but they had at last to be abandoned because "certain liberties, abusing the indulgences of the Bench, turned the innocent diversions of these festivals into a scene of enormous abuses," which obliged the Masters of the Bench to forbid their continuance. Evidently there was ample reason for some of the stringent orders that were made in those boisterous days to secure propriety within the precincts. The Cook who bought the meat for instance, was strictly directed to see that "no more was charged for than was really spent." The Porter who blew the horn, and brought in the pepper and vinegar and mustard, apples, and glasses, was bidden to keep a vigilant eye on the provisions, and "suffer no loose person at the Cellar, Striven, buttery." The Steward who collected the money for commons was to "see that he got it"—a necessary vigilance clearly, because generally between four and five hundred pounds remained in arrears to the House for Commons' Eaten.

The servants were not ungenerously treated in those days. Their perquisites were substantial and appetising. The Chief Butler could claim "the chips of all the Bread us'd in the Hall, and formerly had also the waste drink dripping of the taps and broken drink in the Cellar"—fortunate Chief Butler! The Chief Bench Butler, once called the Chief Washpot, who looked after the wines, could appropriate "not tap dripping, but over the thimble, whole bottle to himself. Curiously, seeing that empty bottles are sometimes referred to as 'dead men,' he was also one of the 'bearers of dead corpses.' That sobriety was the forte of this corps is plainly shown by his ultimate entreatment with the regulation of the clocks. Chief Porter, Second Butler, Barr Butler, Pusney Butler, Under Cook, and so on and on, all had their pickings to sweeten services in the Temple.

Gone now for many a year have been some of these offices and some of the amenities attaching to them, but the dinners are still famous for their adherence to old customs and ceremonies. The Prince of Wales, before entering the Dining Hall, met the "Parliament" in private. He then proceeded with the rest to the dais, preceded by a venerable official wearing a red purple gown and carrying a silver mace. Immediately behind him being a heroic equestrian picture of Charles I. and many other portraits, while around him were waistcoated walls bearing the painted arms of hundreds of past Treasurers and Readers, and above these electric flambeaux, figures in ancient armour, and trophies of ancient arms. The Antients—senior members of the Inn—sat together at a table in front of the dais, and near to them, at a table to the very centre of the Hall, were twelve women barristers and students. Never before had ladies graced one of these banquets by their presence. At one long side table were King's Counsel, and at another, opposite, members of the Junior Bar. There had been a ballot for places of all who were not Benchers, and keen anxiety to be present. Grace was said by the Master of the Temple.

A few of the sixty-odd Benchers were absent, for different reasons—the Earl of Reading and General Smuts because they are in distant parts.

The Canton Government, the Canton Times says, may be able to pass the Chinese New Year without being greatly embarrassed financially, according to a report published. The Government is in need of a little more than $2,000,000 to pay off the troops before the Chinese New Year. It may be able to get in advance some $1,000,000 from land crops tax; $600,000 to $700,000 from loans given by pawn-shops; $150,000 from salt; and $250,000 from sale of public lands.

High Mass was then offered after which the Rector of the Seminary of Bechoel delivered an impressive address on the life and work of St. Francis Xavier. These ceremonies over, the public exposition was declared, and people rushed to catch a glimpse of the revered Saint who died centuries ago and whose body was in the same state of preservation. Long rows of devotees reverentially passed by it all day. Among the devotees were many Hindus, who hold the Saint in reverence and were accorded equal privileges with the Catholic pilgrims. Accommodation and other facilities for the pilgrimage are being greatly taxed owing to the unprecedented number of pilgrims—and the organisers of the All-India Catholic Conference are preparing additional accommodation and offering all sorts of assistance to the pilgrims.

YOU WILL RELISH
& DIGEST YOUR FOOD

If your digestive organs are in a sound and healthy condition, and extracting full nourishment from the food you eat, there ought to be no sign of pain or discomfort. But too many thousands are afraid to eat because of the pains that follow even a light meal of good and wholesome food. The cause most probably lies in a weak or disordered digestive system. Possibly the stomach is out of order, the liver a little sluggish, or the bowels constipated. Get them into a state of healthy activity by taking Mother Seigel's Syrup, and you will be able to eat without any painful after-effects, because your food will then be well digested. Put it to the test yourself, you will cease to suffer.

BANK CASHIER'S JERKILL-AND-
HYDE LIFE."MOST REMARKABLE SELF-REVELA-TION OF HUMAN NATURE"

There were revelations of a dramatic character at the inquest at the Westminster Coroner's Court, on November 7th, on the victims of the shooting tragedy at Messrs. H. S. King and Co.'s Bank, Pall-mall, on Saturday. The deceased were Lindsay Lindsey, 32, a cashier at the bank, and Archibald Harold Charles Grey, 31, a clerk in the same office. The man had been rivals for the affections of Miss Edith Ferguson, an 18-year-old typist at the bank, and the cashier, whose advances had been rejected, seized a favourable opportunity while Grey was in the basement of the bank to shoot him dead with an automatic pistol, afterwards turning the weapon upon himself. Police evidence showed that since Miss Ferguson had refused to have anything to do with the older man he had proceeded to squander his private fortune in debauchery in the West-end at night, while continuing his daily duty at the bank. The full measure of his moral downfall was revealed in an extraordinary statement which was found on his body after the tragedy, in an envelope addressed to the coroner. This letter—"one of the most remarkable self-revelations of human nature ever made in a coroner's court," said Dr. Cowburn, the deputy coroner—ran into many sheets, and was written by Lindsey over a considerable period, after he had once determined to take his rival's life.

"EXQUISITE LOVELINESS."

Edith Mary Ferguson said she had been employed at the bank and had known Grey for three years next February. She had been on friendly terms with him since then. "It was my intention to become engaged to him when I was 20," she went on. "That was not known to the staff at the bank, though it was known to them that we were on friendly terms. We went everywhere together. The first I know of Lindsey was when I had to take shorthand from his dictation. Before then, on January 13th, 1921, she received a gold bracelet wrist-watch. A very small boy brought it to the bank in a packet.

The coroner read the letter which accompanied this watch, as follows:

"The sender of this little gift hopes it will be accepted without inquiry from whom it came. It is offered as a token of admiration for the exquisite loveliness of the wonderful girl to whom it is addressed."

She had no idea from whom the gift came.

The Coroner: Did you tell Grey that you had had this watch?—Yes, the same evening. I think he seemed to guess where it came from.

Witness said later Lindsey asked her again and again to go to the theatre with him, but when he found she did not want to have anything to do with him he told the superintendent of the Girls' Department that he did not want her to take his letters any more.

"DEAR LITTLE LADY."

Miss Ferguson identified a letter which she received from Lindsey, who wrote to the effect that he did not like to ask her because Archie might overhear and try to murder him, but would she let him take her to one of the finest shows in town.

Witness said that she did not go to the theatre. Later, she went to lunch with him, and then he said that he was falling in love with her and asked her, if it could come to anything. He told her that Archie would never be any good to her because he had no money. "He knew from the beginning that I was sorry for him," said witness. Lindsey had never proposed to her in words, only in writing.

In February, 1921, she accepted Lindsey's invitation to go with him to a sacred concert at Croydon. He there asked her to his home for tea the next day, and she said she would if her brother could accompany her. The next morning she decided that it was best not to go, and wrote and told him so.

Miss Ferguson identified another letter from Lindsey dated May, 1921, as follows:

"Dear Little Lady—I am asking for a rebuff in writing this, but I am going away for three months and wish to offer an explanation of my conduct for the past week. I believe you have been willing to give me another chance to seek your company. I owe you a profound apology for not responding. I have been doubtful whether you would be really happy in my company. . . . It is pity that such a lovely creature as yourself should inspire depression in a man. I am afraid you have had rather a trying time about it, and I cannot say how sorry I am. . . . Your wishes will be respected, but I want you to know my feelings. You are, darling, the most charming girl I have ever met, and there is nothing in the world I would not do for you—Yours sincerely, LINDSEY LINDSEY."

Shortly after, witness continued, Lindsey went on leave of absence, and returned about the end of August. She received another letter some time later, addressed "Dear little lady," which stated that he was very fond of her, and practically asked her to become engaged to him.

The Coroner: Did he ring you up after that letter came?—Yes.

And did you reply?—No. . . . Yes, and do you remember him speaking to you again in February, 1922?—Yes. That was the time he followed me down the stairs to Croydon. I did not know he was on it until we got out of the station and he asked me if he could try to make my acquaintance again. I told him "No," it was impossible, and I asked him to promise on his honour that he would never interfere with Archie or me again.

And what did he say?—He said he would not interfere with him any more. May we take it from first to last you have rejected his advances?—Yes, but I have always been sorry for him.

The coroner asked witness if she was afraid of Lindsey. She hesitated for some moments at this question and replied, somewhat faltering, "I was not, exactly. I was not afraid of him, but I don't suppose you understand."

What do you mean by that, Miss Ferguson?

Witness replied, "I was never quite certain what he meant. I never knew whether his professions of love were sincere."

You mistrusted him, is that right?—That is right.

Divisional Detective-inspector Charles Banner deposed to making inquiries about Lindsey, and said apparently since being disappointed in his love affairs he had led a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" sort of existence, and had spent practically all his money. Since March of this year he had drawn over £1,000 from one bank. In the past he had been a good business man and quite respectable, and only recently had he given way to dissipation in the West-end.

The coroner addressed the jury and referred to the letter dated Oct. 24th, written by Lindsey to him. There were fifty-two pages in the letter. In it he said:

"The following is a brief account of the events leading up to the crime that will be committed by me shortly at 3, Pall-mall."

The letter went on to say that it was a story of two men and a girl, and the infrequent solution of the problem that arose from such a situation. He hungered for someone . . . Miss Ferguson was a charming and pretty girl.

"LIFE OF DEBAUCHERY."

"After a great deal more," continued the coroner, "indicating his feelings and views on all sorts of various topics which I do not think are relevant, he comes to 'that evening,' which was shortly before he left for his holiday in June, 1921."

"The evening I thought about the matter, and decided that I had better lay all my cards on the table and say all I had to say. I wrote another letter telling her it was my wish that she should be my wife. She did not reply. I had at this time started my holiday, and for a day or two I was on tenderhooks of suspense, hoping to hear from her. I telephoned asking her to come to lunch, but she refused. She politely told me that the answer to my letter was the word 'No.' I was seized with a feeling of great loneliness, and a craving for feminine company I had never felt before. Realise the position in which I found myself. I had leisure and money for a long period, no companion, and a keen desire for feminine company. I was shy and diffident at that time. I decided to go up West, meet a pretty girl of some sort or other under circumstances that would make an introduction easy, and take her away with me for the holiday. I do not offer any excuse for this, my first step in immoral life. I was simply crazy for the company of a girl—someone to love. Since then I have consorted with about thirty girls for longer or shorter periods."

"I returned to the office without the affection for the girl concerned having in the least abated. It is difficult for me to see her daily in the company of Grey, and the strain was rendered more difficult by his conduct in the matter. It is one of the strongest forces which has compelled me to kill him. I resolved that he should not have this beautiful girl, even if it cost my own life. This has been in my mind for many months, and I have decided it is the only way."

The coroner intimated that the letter concluded as follows:

"It seems to me that if one has failed to find love to continue to live in such circumstances is in a sense hypocrisy. I have been writing these pages for an hour or so for each night, and the time has come for me to draw them to a close. . . . I feel I have lost too much to carry on. I have lost my private fortune in dissipation. I have lost my self-respect. I am loath to leave this world I have found interesting and in many senses beautiful, but now I look upon it with very different eyes. There can be no sunshine or joy in a life without love."

The coroner, in the course of his summing up, spoke of the blameless character of Grey, and said the attraction between Grey and Miss Ferguson was one of the most honourable kind. Grey was shot from behind—a cowardly attack. Miss Ferguson, it seemed to him, had acted with perfect propriety throughout. Speaking of Lindsey, the coroner pointed out that there was a strong strain of insanity in the family, and he said it was undoubtedly true that Lindsey was of unbalanced mind. After retiring for a few minutes the jury returned a verdict that Grey was wilfully murdered by Lindsey, and that Lindsey committed suicide while in full possession of his senses. "In other words," said the coroner, "felony case."

The jury added a rider expressing sympathy with the relatives of Grey and also Miss Ferguson.

"FLOUAT GLASSES"

Out of doors there is nothing so restful and comfortable for the eyes as the light reflected from green fields and trees, the absorption of the ultra-violet and orange rays by the chlorophyll of the leaves; hence the introduction of Floumat Glass, yellowish-green in colour, which is produced in several shades, and lenses made of this may be worn as a protection by over-sensitive eyes where it is desirable to tone down excessive light and glare. Floumat lenses of any prescription in either regular or Toric form are manufactured by the Hongkong Optical Co., successors to Clark & Co., Manufacturers and Refracting Opticians, 29, Queen's Road Central, Hong Kong.
